KEY BISCAYNE FILM FESTIVAL

The Key Biscayne Film Festival celebrates all forms of content: from the short film and episodic content to feature-length films, the Key Biscayne Film Festival welcomes the constantly evolving formats of the audiovisual art form.

Given its unique location and topography - an island village bordered by two government protected parks - the Festival aims to raise awareness of our fragile ecosystem through the arts, by showcasing work that elaborates on our global situation, as well as inviting festival goers to experience a multiple day festival event.

What distinguishes us from other local film festivals is our focus on the surrounding marine environments and the cultures that coexist with that flora and fauna around the world. Living on an island surrounded by a national park, connected to a large metropolitan area, and deeply entrenched with the marine lifestyle, our festival's main themes are: World Oceans, Island Cultures and Water as a resource or even a primary location.

Partnering with our festival will bring attention to your brand to the people of Key Biscayne, its residents, its snow birds (Wintertime residents) and neighbors, comprised of a highly cultured, sophisticated, cosmopolitan, educated, diverse community with a tradition of supporting the arts. At a crossroads between North America, South America and the Caribbean, the Festival not only honors all the cultures that inhabit Key Biscayne but also aims to host the most fascinating creatives who offer panel discussions of their work.

Join the Festival and support the arts via these various sponsorship opportunities.
